

Stone Age to Iron age experience

Yesterday, we went to the Earth Trust to learn about the Iron Age and Stone Age, at Wittenham Clumps.

First, we ran up the Clumps. They were massive and I was the second person to get up on the bench. We had to think about the view and we wondered what it would have been like in the Stone Age.

After that, we made fire with flint and steel. We burnt cotton wool when we rubbed the flint onto the steel and it made a spark.

Finally, we played a game where some people were Romans and some were Iron age people. The Iron Age people had foam rocks but the Romans had shields. The Iron Age people threw the foam rocks at the Romans. After a while, we switched so it was fair.

At the end we changed our boots to shoes and went into the coach and went home.

It was much better than I thought it would be. I thought it would be just listening and writing.
